Tiffany Majors Selected as New President and CEO of Greater Baltimore Urban League

Baltimore, Maryland, 12/4/2018 – The Greater Baltimore Urban League (GBUL), an affiliate of the National Urban League, is announcing the appointment of Tiffany W. Majors as the organization’s new President and Chief Executive Officer. Majors will succeed J. Howard Henderson, who will retire after 20 years with the organization.

The selection makes Majors the first female to serve in the position for the Greater Baltimore Urban League since 1924. “I believe Ms. Majors will take the organization in a great direction as it continues to provide support and resources to communities across Maryland,” said Clarence Campbell, chair of the organization’s Board of Directors. This appointment is the result of a national search conducted by a selection committee.

The conference will serve as Majors’ first public media appearance in her new role, and showcase the Greater Baltimore Urban League’s support of, and partnership with, Northeast Maglev and other businesses that enhance the urban structure of Baltimore.

“The Northeast Maglev is excited to host the upcoming event with the Greater Baltimore Urban League,” Wayne Rogers, Chairman and CEO of Northeast Maglev said. “I look forward to Northeast Maglev and the Greater Baltimore Urban League working together to provide a better quality of life for residents of the Greater Baltimore region through Northeast Maglev’s infrastructure work.”

Tiffany W. Majors brings years of leadership, education and experience, working as a Strategic Planning Officer in Baltimore City, Baltimore County and Prince George’s County. She has also worked with the State of Maryland and served as both a Chief Executive Officer and Project Director for Baltimore Healthy Start, Inc. Ms. Majors champions herself as being “[A] courageous, effervescent and cultured servant and leader.” Majors holds a Master of Healthcare Administration and a Master of Business Administration from Wilmington University. She also completed a Fellowship in Executive Management from the University of California Los Angeles.
